The definition

1. FORM · BEING

3. ACTION · DOING
   Doing what you are good at and care about.

1. Да бъдеш себе си, уважавайки свободата и достойнството на другите.
2. Да имаш близки хора и общност, които те подкрепят.
3. Да правиш това, в което си добър и което ти е важно.

How it was judged

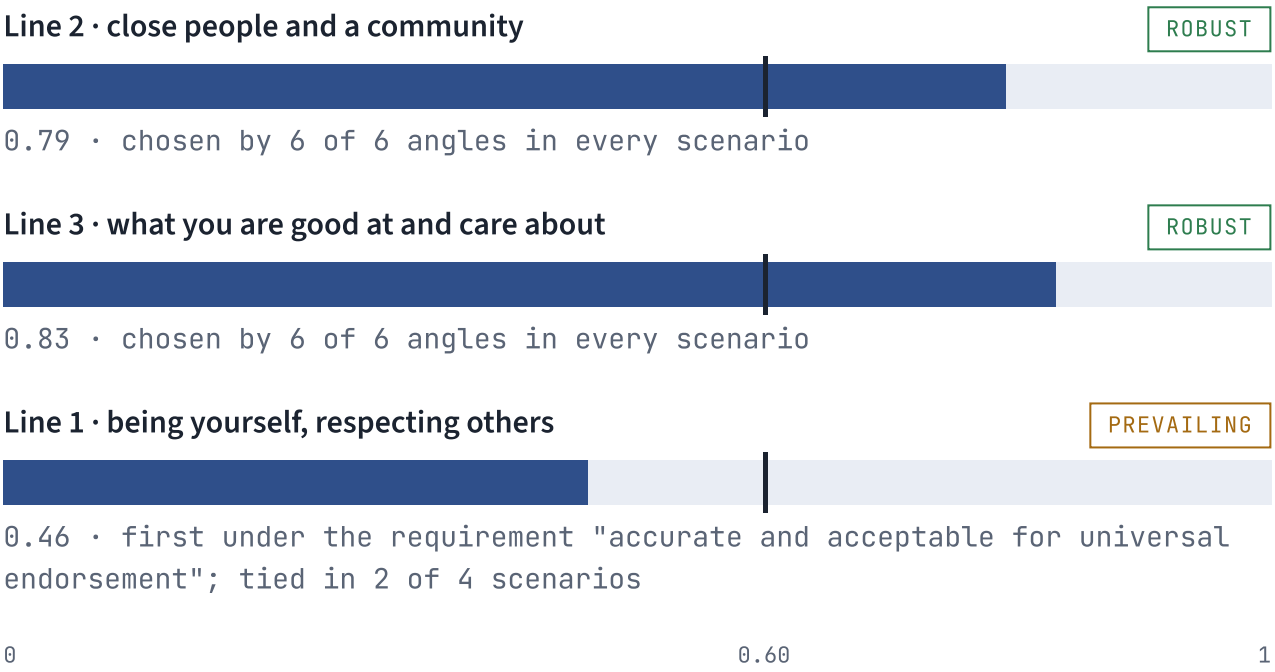

- Each line was judged on its own, against four or five rival wordings.
- Every question was asked from six angles: plain, reordered, facts only, sceptic, advocate, and with the options' names hidden.
- It was asked again with the strongest piece of evidence removed, and under changed conditions: a collectivist culture, poverty, poor health, old age, isolation.

- The evidence came from published well-being research: self-determination theory, the Harvard Study of Adult Development, PERMA, flow, and studies of strengths and kindness.
- The rule of the protocol: what can be computed is never asked, and what is asked is never permission.

Results

Bars show the probability Jev gave the winning wording against its rivals. The black mark at 0.60 is the protocol's threshold for a firm answer.

Why line 1 carries a moral clause

Judged for descriptive accuracy alone, Jev preferred "Accepting yourself and living by your own values" (0.89). The author added a moral requirement on purpose: a definition of happiness that claims universal recognition must not advertise happiness for people who harm others. Under that requirement Jev placed respect for the freedom and dignity of others first, in line with Article 1 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. It gave the plain prohibition "without harming others" 0.03, because harm is an ambiguous word.

What this record does not show

CLAIM	JEV · CLAIM / OPPOSITE	READING
The three lines cover the main causes of happiness	0.28 / 0.37	Not enough evidence
Lacking any one line rules out lasting happiness	0.30 / 0.38	Not enough evidence

The three lines are offered as the three supports of happiness, not as a proven formula. The research facts in the questions were summarised from the literature and were not re-checked for this record. 222 judgements from one model are not 222 independent proofs.

All 222 judgements were timestamped with OpenTimestamps on 13 October 2026, 09:10–09:21 UTC, and anchored in Bitcoin. Only hashes left the machine. Proofs are available for verification on request.
